The Rawson School was built in 1870 but was only used until 1902. By 1902, there were very few students at the school. Those remaining students were sent to South Milwaukee schools and Rawson School was closed. The building was not used as a school after that. It was used as a residence awhile but was condemned in 1956. The building caught fire and was demolished in 1957.
